

Language Delay Network

Introduction

Kids Speech Matters

The Language Delay Network is an information source and networking tool for parents, teachers and carers.

You can find information and support on language / speech disorders, learning difficulties and language development delays in children.

As a Mum of an 8 year old son with a severe language delay, I became frustrated with the lack of support and quality information available, and decided to do something about it.

What does Language Delay Network aim to achieve?

As a community we aim to:

- Bring parents, teachers, carers and specialists together to network and share information.
- Provide self-education through blogs and an eBookstore
- Raise the awareness of a disability that effects 13% of school aged children*
- Provide a one-stop-shop for up-to-date information, with direct links with specialists and associations.
